Several of the big coal magnates were in town all day Wednesday but their was nothing doing for the "prints."

Lewis Stockett, president of the Western Coal Operators Association, and Mrs. Stockett came to Coleman on Wednesday evening.

Charles Kettles and J. T. Scott, of Pincher Creek, were in town on Wednesday as delegates to the convention of the boards of trade and councils.

Dr. Westwood has gone to Princeton, B.C. Dr. O'Hagan, of Blairmore, is attending to Dr. Westwood's practice during the latter's absence.

The evangelistic meetings which have been going on here every night since the 4th inst., excepting Saturday nights, will close on Sunday night next.

J. F. McKay wishes to publicly thank all the many kind friends for their kind and sympathy extended to him during the recent illness and death of his wife.

A. C. Flumerfelt, president of the International Coke & Coke Co., arrived in town on Wednesday morning returning to the coast from a visit to Montreal.

It is said that Frank Sherman has returned to his ranch. He probably needs some remote place where he may grieve over his past conduct or blood over the future.

W. A. DeGraves of the Morning Alberta, Calgary, paid us a fraternal visit on Wednesday. Mr. DeGraves came here on Wednesday to report the proceedings of the big meeting, for his paper.

The large crowds which attended the moving picture show here last week were more than pleased with it. The same men are in town again and gave a good show last night and will show again tonight.

A C. P. R. freight train was wrecked just west of Lundbreck early Wednesday morning. The accident was caused by a broken rail. One was hurt but it required about fifteen hours to clear the track.

Beginning next Sunday week the new train which will be known as the St. Paul-Sooke-Portland Limited, to take the place of the Soo-Sooke flyer, will pass both ways through this district by daylight.

A. H. Carr, inspector for several fire insurance companies, was in town this week and after examining the town fire fighting apparatus, accompanied by H. Gage, was highly pleased with same and spoke well of the town's future.

The glove contest between Billy Burrows and Walter Johnston, which took place at Frank on Saturday night, resulted in a decision on a foul in favor of Johnston, in the second round. The fight was very fast while it lasted, and was all in Burrows' favor. Spend Lewis acted as referee.

Alex. Cameron, returning officer and A. M. Morrison, warden of Macleod on Tuesday during the recount in the Rocky Mountain election. This recount was called by J. A. Macdonald, Charles O'Brien, however, is still the M. P. P. for this constituency. His majority now stands at 33, losing 2 votes by the recount.

PRairie AND PASS PROMOTION LEAGUE

Prominent Men Visit Coleman—Big Convention Held—More Railroads, Better Bridges and Wagon Roads Duly Considered—Resolutions Passed

The convention of municipal councils and boards of trade from Macleod to Coleman inclusive assembled at Coleman, Wednesday, at the invitation of the town council, and Coleman board of trade, for the purpose of formulating plans and drawing up resolutions urging upon the Alberta government and all others interested the necessity of the immediate construction of competitive railway transportation, the need of better roads, bridges and mail service. The response to the call for this convention was very gratifying; all places between Macleod and Coleman being well represented. The vim with which the delegates entered into the work before them was most encouraging and promises good results.

The convention met at the club rooms in the forenoon and the following committee was appointed to draft resolutions to be laid before the convention—C. Kettles, M. Drumm, H. E. Lyon, H. Gunn, S. Acheson, L. A. Manly and A. F. Grady. The convention then adjourned for luncheon at the Coleman hotel when about 36 sat down to a sumptuous repast provided by the citizens of Coleman. Bright and spicy speeches were made by Alex. Cameron, A. F. Grady, W. L. Ouinette, J. J. Scott and A. C. Flumerfelt.

Flumerfelt Explains His Attitude

Mr. Flumerfelt after thanking the board of trade for their kind invitation, was glad to say that he accidentally happened in Coleman and felt deeply grateful for the hospitality extended.

The subject matter, they met to consider at their meeting called later this afternoon, he was, for obvious reasons, unable to give.

Unfortunately, gentlemen, you have visited Coleman at a very inopportune time, in that our works are closed by reason of a strike, and while our men voted to continue operations and renew the existing agreement for a further period, they were overruled by officials outside the camp who are not and can not be directly interested in the operations here.

It seems to me that perhaps the time has come when the Operators Association should very seriously consider the wisdom of adopting an entirely new policy, not that we object to union and union men, on the contrary, we are entirely in sympathy with them—every employee we have—but, these disturbances are so unnecessary, and when conditions are as they are in the International, where the men are making large wages, the conditions in and about the mine—all that science and skill can make them for safety and ease of operations—the majority of the employees being perfectly satisfied with their conditions; that they should not be permitted to continue their labors at their own pleasure leads one to believe that perhaps it would be possible to adopt the principle of non-union works through the entire district. The conditions as we see them to-day are so serious that one hesitates to determine what to do. This, however, may be said, that the operators can not possibly yield to the demands made upon them and remain in control of their mines, consequently, it might be distinctly to the advantage of the employee, to shareholder in the various companies, as well as to the community if a big change were affected and the mines put on a non-union basis.

Mr. Flumerfelt went on to make some remarks respecting the province in general, and referring generally to the great wheat growing area and the immediate possibility of having that grain moved to the markets via the Pacific Ocean.

After luncheon the convention reassembled at the club rooms to receive the resolutions of the committee.

After a great deal of discussion, which brought to light many new ideas, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted.

Resolution Re Railways

WHEREAS—The coal mining industry of the Gross Nest Pass section of Alberta and the farming and ranching interests of Southern Alberta, are seriously handicapped in the regular course of operations and business, and the further development of these

S. K. Mihell, of Calgary, came to Coleman on Tuesday.

A. H. Card was down here from Edmonton this week.

Advertise in the MINER; the paper that reaches the people.

The clammy snow continues to fall, to the great satisfaction of the farmers.

A business is generally judged by the amount of advertising it does.

Lives there a man with soul so dead who, sometime to himself has said: "The MINER I have never read."

Rev. W. G. James, of Pincher Creek, was in town on Wednesday and officiated at the marriage of Miss Ross and Mr. Dale of Cranbrook.

Rev. A. E. H. Bott, of Fishburn, came to town on Saturday last and during Sunday conducted three Divine services in the C. of E. church here.

The Calgary Albertan says that if your business is not worth advertising advertise it for sale. This is some timely advice for a few of our business people.

Rev. Dr. Shearer is expected to spend the week end in Coleman. He will conduct Divine service in the Mission hall, at Blairmore in the morning and will preach here in the evening.

BORN.—On the 16th inst. to the wife of Jehorado Davis, a daughter.

On the same date, to the wife of T. Horne, a son.

All members of Coleman Lodge, I. O. O. F., Victoria Rebekah Lodge and visiting members are requested to meet in their hall at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday preparatory to attending Divine service in the Institutional church.

The president explained briefly that it was not intended to deal with any business matters at the organization meeting excepting that of sending delegates to the joint meeting of the towns of Southern Alberta to be held at Coleman, Wednesday, for the purpose of meeting Premier Rutherford and several of his colleagues to talk over the urgency and need of more railways and better wagon roads throughout the South.

The board then adjourned to meet again on Wednesday, the 26th inst.

BLAIRMORE

Mar-On's new hardware store will be finished this week.

T. P. Cyr loaded a car of mine timber for Taber this week.

J. P. Marcillius, ex-M. P. P. was a visitor to town, Tuesday.

Capt. Beebe purchased a few blocks of Macleod lots this week.

L. P. Roberts and H. E. Lyon paid a flying visit to Macleod this week.

Blairmore will have a football team this season and a good one too.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Drain returned from their long visit to California, Tuesday.

S. J. Watson, of Frank, has opened his branch drug store in the Beebe block; Mr. Smith is in charge.

It is said that a new wing will have to be added to the school here as the present accommodation is inadequate.

Joe Moreno has a number of teams and a large gang of men at work grading the new side tracks to the West Canadian mine.

More machinery for the cement plant arrived this week and it has been stated that cement will be produced by the 10th of July.

The sad news was received on Thursday of the death of Alfred Maxwell Lyon of Detroit, Mich., who died on the preceding day. He was the youngest brother of H. E. Lyon of this place.

BLAIRMORE BOARD OF TRADE

A very enthusiastic meeting was held at the Blairmore hotel, Blairmore, on Tuesday evening, for the purpose of forming a board of trade.

The meeting was a most representative one and the vim with which the proceedings were carried on spoke well for the ultimate success of the undertaking.

After considerable discussion as to the mode of procedure and the good sound advice handed out by the chairman, cautioning those present to use good judgment in the filling of the different offices, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, H. E. Lyon; 1st vice-president, James Douglas; 2nd vice-president, J. B. Reuter; secretary, Milton Budd; treasurer, A. B. Haines.

The committee was made up as follows: F. E. Hinds, M. Rossie, A. A. Sparks, A. McLeod, Rev. J. Sargent, H. Howard, S. Sargent, L. P. Robert and D. C. Drain.

The president explained briefly that it was not intended to deal with any business matters at the organization meeting excepting that of sending delegates to the joint meeting of the towns of Southern Alberta to be held at Coleman, Wednesday, for the purpose of meeting Premier Rutherford and several of his colleagues to talk over the urgency and need of more railways and better wagon roads throughout the South.

The board then adjourned to meet again on Wednesday, the 26th inst.

One on the Professor

Dr. Blank, a professor in a certain university, was on the eve of a trip to Europe, to be absent two years. In his mind and rather harrowing times he made his farewell address to his class:

"Yes, I am about to part with you. This is more than distressing to me. That is, there was a window in my breast, my dear boys, that you might see the innermost recesses of my heart."

A striping in the rear, seized with a happy thought, shouted:

"Professor, would a pain in the stomach do?"

FAMOUS LITTLE MEN.

Britain Has Some Small Public Men With Sir Isaac.

"Each man makes his own statue, builds himself," once wrote a certain bygone author. And, looking down the list of famous men of to-day, it seems as though the little men build best. Take the present British Cabinet for instance. The shortest is Mr. Lloyd-George, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, who measures 5 ft. 7 in. Mr. John Burns is about the same height, although broader, while Lord Morley is over 5 ft. 7 in., his thickness of constitution to stoop making him appear much less. Mr. Asquith is 5 ft. 8 in., about an inch and a half taller than Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, and three inches taller than Lord Rosebery. The shortest of the members of the House of Commons, by the way, is Mr. Steevens, Welsh, Labor member for the Inver Division of Lancashire, who is only 5 ft. 1 in. in height.

Mr. George Gomshall, the popular entertainer, who has just turned 21, is as small as Mr. George Grantham, tucked him under his arm and carried him off the platform. Gomshall could have done the same with "Gee-Gees" brother, Mr. Winton Grantham, who is only 5 ft. 4 in. Mr. Edmund Payne, the popular Galey actor, is perhaps the shortest actor on the stage. He is just over 5 ft. 3 in.

Mr. Barron, who has been known to play golf, was once depicted by a faceless artist as carrying over the shoulder of a cricket bat, as though to protect himself from one of Tom Richardson's extra-special pests. Mr. Barron is not quite as small as Gomshall, but with his moustache off and a little make-up he would pass for a very nice 16-year-old fifteen.

Mr. Barron is exactly 5 ft. 5 in., but he is not as tall as Mr. Alfred Austin, the poet laureate, who is 5 ft. 6 in. on the other hand, those two famous artists, Mr. Myles and Mr. Frank Dicksee are both over 6 ft. in height, the latter being 6 ft. 1 in. and probably the tallest Royal Academician.

It is generally supposed that Lord Roberts is the shortest of famous military men of to-day. As a matter of fact, he is a fraction of an inch taller than General French, who is exactly 5 ft. 6 in. Sir Evelyn Wood, General Sir Edward Winslow, being of the same height. Lord Kitchener is one of the tallest men in the army, standing 6 ft. 1 in. in his stockings.

CHIEFS OF "THE TIMES."

George Buckle Took Charge of Great Paper at Thirty.

For exactly a quarter of a century Mr. George Earle Buckle has occupied the editorial chair of what is generally regarded as the world's most influential journal, viz. The Times.

Furthermore, Mr. Buckle was actually appointed editor four years after he had entered The Times' office on the editorial staff. He had already made a name, however, as editor on the law, as when, in 1880, the year he was called to the Bar at Lincoln's Inn, the opportunity of joining The Times' staff was presented to him.

He therefore began his practical career, but turned to editorial work. Four years later, when Thos. Chenevix died, he was succeeded by his son-in-law, Thos. Oxford man, who, at the date of his death, was just 30 years old. The year following his appointment, Buckle married Alicia Payne, a third daughter of James Payne, the novelist.

Mr. Buckle was born near Bath, and was the eldest son of Rev. George Buckle, canon and prebendar of Wells. He received his education at Winchester School, and at the New College, Oxford, with a scholarship. His course there was a series of honors until he arrived at Lincoln's Inn, to find the legal education he did not use before the Bar.

Money No Rival For Love.

There was quite a romance associated with the marriage of the Earl of Fingall, who has been presented with a silver hunting-horn by the Navan Urban Council, to mark his name among the nobility at a farm-house at Navan.

In common with many other peers of high and ancient lineage, his lordship, although by no means poor, did not inherit a very large income, and his friends took him to task for agreeing that he should marry her heiress, and so re-suscitate the family fortunes. They even, so it is said, pointed out to him a young lady who was willing to exchange her large income for his old age.

But, moreover, he fell in love with the charming Miss Daisy Burke, a Galway girl. She reciprocated his affection, and they were married, to live, in the parades of fairy tales, "happily ever after."

Lord Fingall was born in Rome, on April 1, 1859.

He has been a soldier, and was married in dispatches for service rendered in South Africa. An ancestor, Sir Christopher Plunket, fell at Stoke in 1467.

ONCE MORE THE PROOF IS GIVEN

THAT DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS WILL CURE THE DEADLY BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

Martin O'Grady Suffered from Bright's Disease for a Year, but the Reliable Kidney Remedy cured him. Emmett, Renfrew Co., Ont. (Spec.)—That one sure cure for Bright's disease is Dodd's Kidney Pill. It is now known that Dodd's Kidney Pill is good in Bright's Disease. The shorted is Mr. Lloyd-George, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, who measures 5 ft. 7 in. Mr. John Burns is about the same height, although broader, while Lord Morley is over 5 ft. 7 in., his thickness of constitution to stoop making him appear much less. Dodd's Kidney Pill is again proved in the case of Martin O'Grady of this place. And for the benefit of other sufferers Mr. Asquith is 5 ft. 8 in., about an inch and a half taller than Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, and three inches taller than Lord Rosebery. The shorted is Mr. George Grantham, the Member of Parliament for the Inver Division of Lancashire, who is only 5 ft. 1 in. in height.

Mr. George Grantham, the popular entertainer, who has just turned 21, is as small as Mr. George Grantham, tucked him under his arm and carried him off the platform. "Being advised to try Dodd's Kidney Pill, I bought a couple of boxes and found relief soon after I started taking them.

This is only one of hundreds of cases in which Dodd's Kidney Pill has conquered the worst form of kidney disease. They never fail to cure Bright's disease. Diabetes, Rheumatism, Lumbago or Sciatica.

SCOTLAND AND RACING.

Even in Roman Days It Was Famous For Its Military Horses.

It is apt to be forgotten that Scotland has some of the most ancient days of its history from the most ancient days. When Agricola defeated the Caledonians, A.D. 84, the Celts enemy, as Tacitus relates, were especially strong in Scotland and chariots. Some Kings of Scotland did much to improve its native breed of horses; and in this connection it is not to be forgotten that the first Queen of Scotland, Queen Margaret, was a great horsewoman.

Murten, a youth of 17, is employed as a pony boy in the Woods of Atherton, Lancashire, as he was born there. He takes his pony down an incline with some empty trucks, when he was warned that the roof was cracking. With great presence of mind, he unhooked the pony and dragged the animal out of danger.

Then the roof fell, in eight tons or more of timber, completely filling the engine room, which was a gift from the Queen. The pony was unhooked and Murten about the hands. Incidentally, Murten saved the life of another boy who was following, and who, but for the pony, must have been crushed to death.

But the great achievement honored was that he saved the pony's life. For that he was awarded a silver cup, and a gold medal, with a portrait of Queen Margaret, presented by the Countess of Fife, who is president of the Yorkshire Society for the Encouragement of Humane Treatment.

To give verisimilitude to the ceremony, Murten appeared in his pit clothes, and with his face "made up" with coal dust, specially brought to him from the country of Fife, and his white plaid, and a tartan cap.

He carried a lighted Day lamp, and smiled appreciatively when the secretary announced that two members of the league had contributed a sovereign apiece, as a mark of their admiration.

Lord Ormonde, the Marquis of Ormonde, who has erected a brass tablet in St. George's Cathedral, Kilkenny, Ireland, to the memory of all the noblemen who are buried in Kilkenny, is hereditary Chief Butler of Ireland, and has an unique collection of cups, which he has collected from all the time of the Coronation at which his ancestor officiated. Both Lord and Lady Ormonde own nicknames. Lady Ormonde is known to her friends as "Tilly," while with her lord, he is known as Lord Osbry before Lord Ormonde. Kilkenny Castle is one of the oldest inhabited houses in the three kingdoms, some of the rooms remaining almost exactly the same as they were in the year 1100.

There is a famous service the castle made of alabaster, which is good, and it is considered so soft that it could easily be spoilt with cleaning. Further, it cannot be heated in the usual manner. The plates are warmed by being plunged in a cauldron of boiling water, which is done by means of tongs, the ends of which are carefully covered with charcoal leather. This elaborate process takes place just outside the door of the castle.

Lord Ormonde possesses robes which have seen service at three coronations and they are still in use.

These robes in existence which have been adorned with embroidery.

They are worked round the edge in elaborate designs in gold and silver thread, which makes a rich effect.

Records of the Leicestershire Family.

The recent death of the Earl of Leicestershire has brought to light the fact that his eldest son, who has succeeded his father in the family honors, has been heir for more than sixty years. When Georgina, Lady Leicestershire, died, it was discovered that her daughter-in-law, known for thirty years as Lady Coke, has become the reigning countess—married the late Lord Leicestershire 1875 as his second wife, having been the mother of nine children, nearly all of whom were older than herself. Her own marriage was blessed with six sons and a daughter, so that she has been a constant source of pride to the family.

Her son, the present Earl of Leicestershire, is the third son of the late

FRANK SHERMAN EXPELLED

Frank Sherman, president of district 18, U. M. W. of A., has just been expelled from the Socialist party for writing the following letter to Hon.
W. H. Cushing during the recent political campaign:

Macleod, Alta., March 16, 1909.
The Hon. W. H. Cushing,
Calgary, Alta.

Dear Sir,—
I understand that you will shortly have a vacancy for the position of Coal mines inspector under your department. Knowing as I do, your desire to appoint practical experienced men, I have the pleasure in recommending to your notice and approval
Mr. Frank Aspinall, late manager of the United Collieries, Ltd., Edmonton.
I have known Mr. Aspinall for a number of years. He is one who has worked his way up from the ranks, and I believe him to be a thoroughly competent man for such a position.

I sincerely trust that you will be elected for the city of Calgary. You know that I am opposed to your side
in politics, but I could not consistently oppose you on account of the good work you have done and the kind feeling you have shown towards the workingmen of this new province.
We are meeting here in Macleod for the purpose of renewing agreements with our employers in the coal trade.
I am hopeful of a peaceful settlement.
Failing this, however, we may be compelled to again ask you for your kind assistance which was so generously given to us two years ago.

Again wishing you every success,
I remain,

Yours truly,
F. H. SHERMAN,
Pres. Dist. No. 18, U. M. W. of A.

TO TALK WITH MARS

Boston, April 22.—A system by which it may be possible for mankind to communicate with the inhabitants of Mars is suggested by Prof. Wm. H.
Pickering, of Harvard University, in an interview just published. The plan would necessitate the use of a series of mirrors so arranged as to present a single reflection surface towards the planet.

"Operation," said Prof. Pickering,
"we began a series of flashes, cutting off the sun's rays for an instant and then throwing on the reflection again, repeating this at regular intervals, following say the telegrapher's code of dot and dashes, I have no doubt that provided there were intelligent people on Mars, the light would at once attract attention and would lead eventually to an answering signal. Once we received such an answer the rest would be comparatively easy matter of establishing a code and transmitting messages."

An exchange says: The editor of today has to get his nose down to the grindstone and keep there 16 hours per day and 365 days in the year, or he falls by the wayside. There are men who quit work on Saturday night and rest until Monday morning. They lay aside business cares at five or six o'clock every evening and do not resume them until seven or eight the next morning.
Not so with your editor. He has no elegant leisure. He knows no hours, no Sunday, no night. When he goes to a party, or to church, or on an alleged pleasure trip, it is all in the line of duty. Withal, our editor is a cheerful, long suffering soul, going about doing good in his gyn humble way.
He writes long puffs on church socials, and in return therefore accepts a chunk of cake that would sink a battleship. He notes the arrival of all the babies in the neighborhood and eternally purifies his soul in telling how pretty they are.
He rejoices with the gay and mourns with those who are sad.
He booms every enterprise which makes his community rich and goes about himself clothed in shoddy coats and one-sleeper. He glories over the fortune of his neighbor, and meekly eats his own repast of hotted corn cobs and colored labels off tomato cans.

I sincerely trust that you will be elected for the city of Calgary. You know that I am opposed to your side
in politics, but I could not consistently
oppose you on account of the

Bred In the Bone.

By James Norton.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Ezra Billings and Martha Scott had married rather late in life. Each was known to have "opinions," but it was generally agreed that they would live happily. So they did, but their ways were not exactly understood by their friends. Before they had been married two weeks Martha called Ezra the biggest fool in Saginaw county, and Ezra called her an old cat. Neither was the least bit angry. It was just their way, and they understood each other.

They did not dissemble and play the hypocrite when a third party was present. Ezra had courted Martha for four years before marrying her, and she was the only woman he had ever loved, but this did not stand in the way of his saying to her in the presence of old Aunt Jackson, "Martha, if we had a chicken on the farm with less brains than you've got I'd wring its neck."

And then Martha fell in duty bound to good naturally reply, "Ezra Billings, if I didn't lead you around by a string you'd be sitting down on the hot stove half the time."

In time it got to be known that the couple wrangled like a dog and a cat, and fifty families became more or less interested. In time also they passed to stronger terms and epithets. Between themselves they didn't mean anything by it. It was just a little harmless way of his when Ezra said to Martha in front of a tui peddler: "Say, woman, don't smile at me and ask my opinion about dispans. If I hadn't been watching you like a hawk this morning, you'd have put parle green in my coffee."

"That ain't the way to kill off born fools," replied Martha. "You've got to hit 'em with an ax as they are lying asleep in bed."

Of course the peddler passed it along, and of course the lightning rod and the windmill man passed along what they heard, and at last the neighbors woke up each morning expecting to find that foul murder had been done during the night.

Mr. and Mrs. Billings were members of one of the churches down in the village, and their pastor was finally appealed to. Being a conservative as well as a good man, he thought the matter over and over again, then called Ezra to see him to fit the subject. It was a hit at both, and they were there to hear, and yet when they left the church Ezra was heard to say, "Martha, if the preacher had walloped me as he did you'd keep my head shut for the next fourteen years!"

"Wallop me!" she replied. "Ezra Billings, every single word of that sermon was made for you, and if you keep on wrangling with me the people will turn out and give you a coat of tar and feathers."

Then the preacher decided that it was his duty to call at the farmhouse and make a more direct appeal. Martha was glad to see him. She said she was glad to see him, but then she was in need of advice, and was just thinking of coming to see him. She said it was about that fool husband of hers.

He had taken it into his head that the world was round, when everybody else knew better, and had threatened to brain her with the crowbar if she didn't believe as he did. He wouldn't do it, of course. Ezra was one of the two who were round, for it was round or flat, and he couldn't be brought to kill a fly, but she thought he ought to be wrestled with for talking that way.

"But, Sister Billings, you have been heard to threaten to poison your husband," protested the good man.

"Oh, but that's just our way!"

"You poor old lead in his ear as he slept!"

"Yes, but Ezra knows I wouldn't do such a thing. If he was afraid of that he wouldn't sleep and snore the way he does."

"You have threatened to throw him over the curb into the well!"

"But if I did he would climb right up again!"

"You have said that you wished a tree would fall on him and that he would be brought home dead!"

"Yes, but I giggled when I said it, and when I giggled I don't mean what I say. As I said, I should like your advice. Do you think the flies ought to have the same chance to live as the cows?"

"That is a rather queer question, Sister Billings."

"Yes, but that dritted fool of a husband of mine, who ought to have been in an idiot asylum years ago, has got the idea in his nothead that they have, and he's gone and tied up all the cows' tails so they can no longer switch."

As we advance into life out of large experience of the world and of ourselves are unfolded the ideals of what will be possible to us if we make the best use of the world and of ourselves, taken as we are. Let these be as high as they may, they will always be lower than those others which are permanent.

"The world will always be imperfect, but life is not a failure because they are so. It is these that are to burn for us, not like lighthouses in the distance, but like candles in our hands—James Lane Allen, "The Chor Invisibile."

The good man sighed heavily and went down to the cornfield to have a little talk with Ezra. He was greeted with the greatest pleasure, but as soon as they had shaken hands the farmer began:

"Martha tell you that I threatened to choke her to death last night?"

"But I did, though of course it was all in fun. What do you think that empty headed idiot did yesterday afternoon? Because a bed stung her she went at it and stung over a whole bunch and the old bed was still stinging in thirty-seven different places."

"I suppose I could push her into the goose pond in such a way that people would call it a case of suicide, but I don't do it. We love each other and don't mean nothing by our talk. You have probably heard a great lot, but you mustn't pay any attention to it."

"The next morning he was still unsatisfied, but resolved to let the case alone. He told Deacons Harrow and Swift so when they dropped in to talk matters over, but they went away to do a little plotting and planning on their own account. They agreed that it was a scandalous case and called for heroic treatment."

Ezra had been stung away, and then on the afternoon Deacon Swift dropped in to inquire where Ezra was. He knew well enough that he was down in the woods chopping and that Deacon Harrow was taking care of that end of the line.

"Ezra?" queried Martha in reply.

"Why, the blamed skunk is down in the woods, and I don't know what morning that he won't worth the power to blow him to Goshen. I don't see why he don't die and let me marry a sensible man."

"Mrs. Billings, what if you should hear that Ezra was dead?" asked the deacon in a solemn voice.

"Oh, quit your fooling!"

He had been a dead body, mangy out of shape by a failing tree, should be borne into this house within the next ten minutes?"

"Is—Is anything the matter with Ezra?"

"You have called him names. You have wished him dead. You have tempted and defied Providence. Oh, the fashions!"

She didn't want to hear anything further, but, hating and with skirts flying, she took across the fields for the woods. Deacon Harrow, who had Ezra to handle, had indulged in a few casual observations and then asked if Martha was still.

"She was all right when I left the house this morning, but there's no telling what an idiot a woman of mine may have gone into the head first for all I know."

"Ezra Billings, you have been heard to threaten to brain your wife."

"That's just my way."

"You have been heard to wish that she was dead."

"I don't know what just a joke, deacon."

"Joe, Joe! If Mrs. Billings is found dead in the house with her head all battered in, don't you know?"

But Ezra had dropped his ax and started for the house on a run. Husband and wife met halfway, with a deacon behind either to point the moral. There was no moral to point.

"You stop and consider, knockered old man, what do you mean?" demanded the wife as she saw her husband was all right.

"And what do you mean?" demanded the husband as he looked her over.

"Say, Martha, you don't know 'nuff to lift them big feet of yours when wading through a mudhole."

"Ezra, you are a real naked lar!"

"I don't know what you mean, deacon."

And as they turned their backs on each other and walked away the two deacons locked arms and headed for the road. Not a word was said until they had climbed the fence, and then Deacon Swift observed, "Would you call it a failure, deacon—a failure on our part?"

"I certainly should, deacon, and I should further say that we hadn't better say anything about it."

Compulsory Pluck.

The colonel of a crack cavalry regiment was impressed with the efficiency of certain volunteer infantry division during some recent maneuvers and thought their courage suggested to their leader that they should receive a charge made by his men.

The officer in command consented and drew his men up in the required position to face the ordeal.

Heretofore the courage of the foot regiment had remained unquestioned, but when they met the crack cavalry under the command of their leader it was time they turned and fled in a most disorderly manner, save one man, who remained steadfast on bended knee and with fixed bayonet.

By a dexterous movement the cavalry charge was brought to a termination within a foot or so of the hero, and their commander, approaching the valiant soldier, said:

"Bravo! You are the bravest man in the regiment and worth all the rest of them put together. But tell me—why didn't you fly with the others?"

"So I should have done," said the hero, "but my foot got stuck in a hole!"

—London Answers.

Idiots That Are Possible.

Sir Alexander Binnie, who has suggested a new danger to life in London in the form of dissected severs, who are the stronger, Mr. Binnie, Binnie Tunnel, the success of which has made it certain that in some not very distant future the lower reaches of the Thames will have similar tunnels at short intervals for many miles.

Important Cornish Document.

One of the ancient documents at Devizes, instead of being a "charter," as was supposed, is, in reality, "letters patent" by James I under the Great Seal (1603), relating to the reassembling of the Amphityonie Council at the close of the Phoenician war.

The discovery may have important results.

HUMORS OF THE P. O. BANK.

Some Amusing Incidents Preserved In the English Records.

When we consider that one person out of every six in the United Kingdom is a depositor in the Post Office Savings Bank, it is not difficult to realize that there are great possibilities of humor, which is often the more amusing as it is unconscious. In fact, most of the incidents of the English schools of learning, the burial place of Brian Boru, the greatest of the Irish kings, the home of St. Patrick, the cathedral town of Armagh, his the most sacred place in Ireland, the ecclesiastical headquarters of both the Roman Catholic and the Protestant churches of Ireland, the seat of the most ancient and celebrated of Irish schools of learning, # Some Remarkable Facts

Fine Artistic Printing

If you were ill and sent for a doctor wouldn't you have enough confidence in him to follow his instructions? Why, of course, any sane person would because he is a specialist and thoroughly understands your needs and will recommend what he knows to be best for you.

Will you not let this same reasoning apply to your needs in office and business stationery. The people that have seen our work say that we are specialists in this line. If you will put your work into our hands we will give you the best treatment possible. Our Job Work is the result of a careful study in the printing and advertising art worked out by thoroughly competent artists, with the latest styles of type and modern machinery to help them.
